

New hobby – gardening

One of our colleagues, Mei Shyan, picked up a new habit during this time – Gardening! This is a project she has with her 2 boys – for them to learn about science and to cherish food on the table. The plants and flowers have been growing well!

Not being able to travel for holiday, many of us became tourist in our own city. I've went on a few walking trails in Singapore during weekends which were really nice as a means of unwinding and to do something different. Spotted a crocodile during one of our hike! We could also see Malaysia across the water (it felt so near yet so far - especially in this time where we can't cross the border).
